TIME HONORED PROPERTIES

This is a special category of real estate of Property Intelligence with a common feature the respect for the historicity and the elements of the rural heritage.

we CHOOSE

We choose properties located in the "heart" of the rich Cretan hinterland, with a unique identity and views of the Libyan and Cretan Sea.

Close to settlements and villages, the properties are directly connected with the activities of the surrounding social and cultural development and the commercial environment of the place, providing the possibility of social gathering and awareness of issues of cultural, historical heritage and local culture.

The climate and the natural beauty of the Cretan land, are, beyond a doubt, internationally known and loved, however the absolutely undisturbed and quiet atmosphere, combined with the variety and diversity of the natural environment of the wider area create a unique scenery.

Centuries-old and super-centuries-old olives that can withstand the wind and time, especially greens such as "harmless", "wild leek", "wild artichoke" and "Artikites" mushrooms, mushrooms that always grow at the root of the plant that is very common in Crete "Arkitas", wild partridges and impressive lammergeyer (Gypaetus barbatus), that make their appearance frequently, compose a landscape of rare flora and fauna.

PRESENT

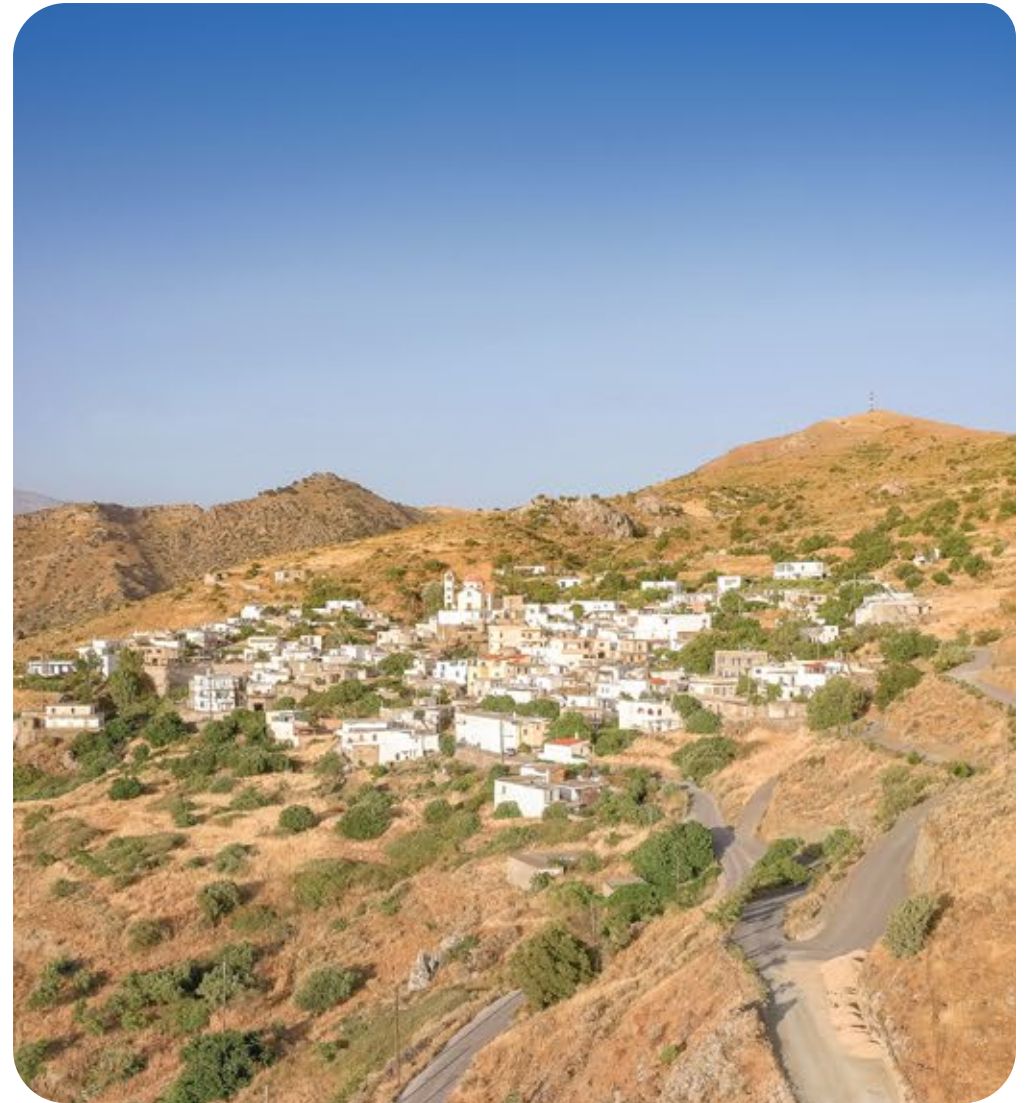

The category of these properties presents another remarkable peculiarity. Their natural location is integrated in the past agricultural activity of the settlement.

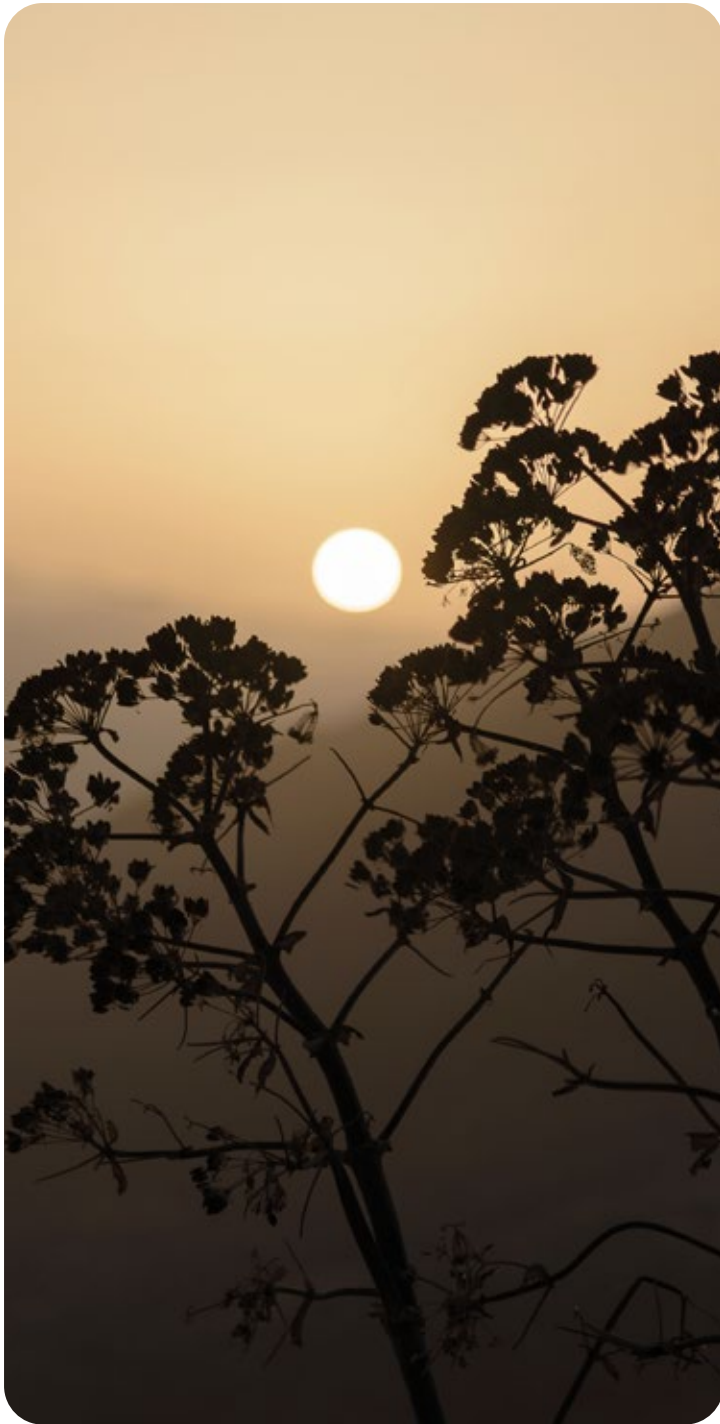

This is land that used to be the only livelihood for the inhabitants of the wider area.

This is land that used to be the only livelihood for the inhabitants of the wider area. Old threshing floors, dry stones (masonry technique of ancient times, without cohesive mortar between the stones).

The art of dry stone is now on the UNESCO list for the intangible cultural heritage of mankind. Small agricultural buildings, stone plinths (makeshift structures for the protection of domestic animals), sochora (fenced fields), unfold before the eyes of the visitor, revealing a valuable agricultural cultural heritage.

our INTENTION

All the above elements are preserved and highlighted, combined with modern bioclimatic and design concepts, so that we can provide you with complete proposals for their utilization. In addition to the connection of the real estate with the surrounding settlements, to have as a whole, their own "neighborhood" ambiance and mentality, without losing their privacy.
